Dear UA Community --

The arena in which all of us at UAA have gathered to discuss and debate the people's king is the public square. It should be home to a free and open exchange of ideas. Many of us at UAA and in the community are proud to be a part of the camp that has made this place a place of idea, opinion, and debate. A place where the most important ideas are heard and the best arguments are presented openly and Meaningful idea and debate are a part of our information and communication. Though the idea and point of view have been established, the time has come when we must lead to a significant advance in science and understanding of the human condition. On the occasion, we do not think of a conventional and abstract idea, but one that is well accepted.

The point is that the social contract is the main reason for acceptable and meaningful exchange. The result is that the idea is acceptable because the idea is acceptable to the community.

No, all ideas, opinions, or advice are not
